WRITE A RESEARCH PAPER

Research papers are an important way for people to share ideas with each other. These papers are also a useful way to learn more about specific subjects.

Writing research papers can be really hard unless you follow a schedule. Managing your time when you write a research paper can help you write a clear, organized report.

Write the research steps in the correct order along the step ladder.

Step Bank

- Finish last draft — Check your report one last time for errors.
- Research — Read books, websites, and other sources about your topic before writing.
- Turn paper in — You're finished with the research paper!
- Review — Have someone read your first draft. Correct any mistakes your friend points out.
- Choose a topic — Find a subject that you'd be interested in researching and writing about.
- Outline — After researching, draw out how you'd like to write your paper.
- Write first draft — Write everything you've researched in your outline.
